Reading time: 3 minutes To keep your Rainbow RainMate working the best possible you may need to keep it clean. But if you're here, you probably already know this. And that's why I'm here to help! In this short little how-to guide you will learn five things to help you keep your RainMate in tiptop form: How to clean a Rainbow RainMate How often to clean your RainMate An easy way to know when your RainMate needs to be cleaned How to disassemble a Rainbow RainMate for cleaning How to clean mineral is added in your Rainbow RainMate If you have the original RainMate or RainMate II (too illuminated) there is no need to worry! This guide works for any of the models. ☺ If you haven't bought a RainMate and you just want to see what the maintenance on it looks like, you might be interested in reading the RainMate IL air purifier review I did. Or if you're in the market for something that doesn't require much maintenance & maintenance this can help too: The 5 Best Filterless Air Purifiers. Now that it's out of the way, let's get to the things we're all here for! How to clean a Rainbow RainMate Because the RainMate basin is plastic, you are required to hand wash it, but by following these six simple steps you have it properly cleaned up in no time: Turn off the device using the power button on the back. Unplug rainbow rainmate. Empty the pool. With soap and a soft cloth, wash from top to bottom. Rinse & let it air dry. Fill up and enjoy! The basin for Rainbow RainMate air purifier should be cleaned about twice a month. If you notice that within two weeks the water gets very dirty then consider cleaning it every 10 days. IMPORTANT: Rainbow RainMate is not dishwasher safe and you should not use hot water to clean it! Over time, this can change the shape of the basin and damage it. How To Tell When Your Rainbow RainMate Needs Cleaning There is a simple and visible way to tell when your Rainbow RainMate needs to be cleaned. When the water inside the basin comes down the inside in waves - it's time for a cleaning. When the water inside the pool is coming down in raindrops – it works best! How to disassemble a Rainbow Rainmate You should also clean the parts on top of the Rainmate air purifier. This is easy to do and only takes about 5 minutes. Below is an explanation + video showing how to take apart a Rainbow Rainmate. Taking apart a Rainbow RainMate is pretty simple because there aren't many parts to it. All you have to do is remove the separator (the central piece that touches the water, it's easy to remove) and wipe it off with a washcloth. To get into the tighter hard-to-reach spots inside the separator, use a Q-tip. Below is a video that provides a quick and thorough review on how to disassemble and clean the Rainbow RainMate separator. How to Clean Mineral Build-ups in Your Rainbow RainMate Air Purifier If your house has hard water (water with a high mineral count) and Use it in your Rainbow Rainmate, you may notice the mineral build up occurring inside the basin. Don't worry about it! Your RainMate isn't hurt forever. Cleaning the mineral accumulation inside the rainmates basin does not take much. To get rid of mineral builds inside your Rainmate basin, just scrub on them with a dishbrush and vinegar. Be sure to unplug and empty the basin before doing this!
